The Future

The future is unknown, but it's fun to predict what life may be like far into the future. In 30 years, it will be 2045. I think things will be quite different from what life is like today.

One thing I predict is that fashion will change. Even though I'm sure jeans will stay, they may be much more comfortable and look more like sweatpants. In fact, I think all clothes will be more casual. A second thing I predict is that food will be grown at home in <sup>kitchen</sup> ~~home~~ gardens. People will be more concerned with eat organic food. We also may end up drinking our food more in 2045 in shakes. Another prediction is about school. Students in the future won't go to a school building. Instead, they will log on to virtual classrooms and do their work online.

Thirty years seems like a long way away! I can't wait to see if some of my predictions actually come true. However, I'm not sure if I want them all ~~to~~ to happen!
